Living sober means Give the little stuff to God, too. Now, I am getting better at letting go of little daily stuff – those thoughts that I can roll around and around the way a tumblebug rolls around you-know-what in the corral.

Living Sober - Letting Go and Holding Tight

Living with troubling people, some whose drinking is unmanageable, is rough sailing. They create craziness. Navigating troubled family waters – so stormy that we’ve forgotten sunny weather – is daunting. Broken people living in a broken world can do great harm to others and themselves.

Tight

This is the heart of changing from holding on to letting go. Whatever is tight in your central column, relax. Try it right now. What is tight? Relax that. Soften. Open your awareness beyond yourself. Once you've done this (and you might have to repeat the relaxing, multiple times), you can open your awareness from just your own body and your self-concern, to the world around you.
